President's Piece for Peace

Rev. Dr. Brian S. Saunders
District President

MAY 2018

While there are so many reasons to claim the season of Easter as our favorite, among the many are the beautiful and theologically sound hymns; that has to be one of my greatest joys. The season itself is barely long enough to insert all of the marvelous poetry that has been handed to us over the years and even centuries. The Easter hymns do not sing forth a human sentiment like so many modern songs emanate. Easter hymns shout to the world a truth beyond human comprehension. A man who was dead is alive again. Not only that miracle, but His resurrection, is gifted to the believer so that we too will raise from the dead and live in bliss for eternity. Easter hymns teach a divine truth that makes us content in a very contentious life.

One of the hymns actually teaches us that very fact. The title is I Am Content! My Jesus Ever Lives (LSB 468). Being content is not an easy condition these days. When the newest, the best, the most powerful, best technology, etc. is always before our eyes and within our grasp, we seldom find ourselves content with what we have. My cell phone, often called a dinosaur, finally broke in so many functions I had to break down and purchase a new one. I was surprised at how many generations of new and improved editions of phones have come and gone since my last phone. I was content with what it did because it did what I needed it to do. Now I have a phone that does more than I can imagine, frequently informing me of how ignorant I am with technology. However, as long as it does for me what I need, I am content, even with a contentious phone.

The Easter message is one that brings contentment in the midst of a contentious life. The contention we face is not technology or not having the biggest, best and brightest gadgets. Our contention is with ourselves. It is with our Old Adam that constantly wants to be its own God, convince us of a self-accomplished path to Heaven, build our own defense mechanisms against the righteous wrath of God, and finally to do all we can to avoid death. The sad part is that the Old Adam doesn't act old. It is vibrant and active our entire life long.

Easter is the answer to this contention. Jesus Lives, says the hymn: He has fulfilled the Law of God for me, God's wrath He has appeased. Since he in death could perish never, I also shall not die forever. I am content! I am content! The contentious one has been defeated. His lies and accusations have been abated. He cannot have you, for Christ Jesus has claimed you in the death and resurrection of your baptism. With this we can be content.

This is good news, especially this time of year when nature is new and warmth rests upon us once again. We can be itchy about where we serve, the people we care for, the students we teach and the towns in which we live. We might be looking elsewhere, over the fence to see if there are greener pastures. If you are to serve another place and another people, God will determine that by leading you to accept a Call that He has sent.

The Easter season, spring time, warmth returning, is simply a time to be content. Content where you are and what you are doing because it is all guarded and blessed by the gift of life over death. Nothing can take that away from you. Heaven is not a place of discontent but of being content. That is why the Holy Supper is a place to be content. It is Heaven on earth, a foretaste of the Feast to come. God has us where we are for His sake and for the sake of those who are fed by His ministry through us. Because it is His ministry, His Means of Grace, we can be content. God bless you all with fruitful service and content lives.

To Do Versus Done For You!

Rev. Dr. Dean Rothchild
Assistant to the President

MAY 2018

Many of us keep a “to do” list of things which need to be accomplished. I keep mine on the right side of my desk. When one task is accomplished it is crossed off the list. Eventually, all of the items are done and you start another “to do” list. When a particular list is finished one can feel that he has accomplished something.

When people are so programed by the “to do” list, it only logically follows that salvation must be something that one “does.” In his book, Has American Christianity Failed?, Bryan Wolfmueller points out how American Christianity has turned salvation and the Gospel into something one must do. It comes down to a decision to receive Christ or to invite Jesus into your heart. Nothing could be further from the truth.

I have been present when people have died; dead does nothing. I have been out in the field dressing out a deer that I have killed; the dead deer does nothing. Nail a fly with the swatter and the fly does nothing. I know from the Scriptures that “the wages of sin is death, and the soul that sins shall die.” Dead does nothing. People apart from Christ Jesus are spiritually dead and can do “nothing” in regard to their salvation. I know that a spiritually dead person needs to be made alive, and that is God’s work through His Word. I know that the one who thinks that they have no need for the Savior needs to be killed by the Law, so that the Gospel can make them alive.

God’s Word declares that Jesus died and was dead because of our sins. His Word tells us that on the cross, Jesus suffered the wrath of God for those sins in our place and it killed Him. Jesus dies and in Him, death dies. Jesus sheds His blood, on that cross and He atones and covers, and washes our sins away, all sins, your sins, and my sins!

I know from the Gospel that Jesus rises on Easter Sunday. Jesus rises and death is defeated. I am told in Romans 6 that our baptism was into His death and resurrection. They are now ours. “He saved us, not on the basis of deeds which we have done in righteousness, but according to His mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewing by the Holy Spirit whom He poured out upon us richly through Jesus Christ our Savior, that being justified by His grace we might be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life.” (Titus 3:5-7).

As we can see, “salvation” has no “to do” list, but is a “done for you” reality. The Gospel declares, “It is all done and it has been done for you.” It is “perfectly and completely done for you.” As Paul says: “I have been crucified with Christ, and it is no longer I who live, but Christ lives in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and delivered Himself up for me.” (Galatians 2:20). May you live each day rejoicing in the “done for you,” as given to you in Word and Sacrament.

What is On Your Epitaph?

Jan Doellinger

Assistant to the President, Schools

MAY 2018

Jesus said: “Whatever you have done for one of the least of these brothers of mine, you have done it for me.” (Matthew 25:40)

It's May. In a few weeks, your students will walk out your classroom door headed for summer vacation. Presumably, this will be the last time you have them in your classroom, unless you teach multiple grades, or your teaching assignment has been changed to a different grade. I know there are several other scenarios that could be taking place, but for our purposes, we'll just go with these two examples.

As you reflect back over your school year, how will your little “schnickelfritzs”* remember you? (Google it to see if it can be applied to your group of students this year.) What would be on your 2017-2018 school year epitaph? Oh, to be sure, you have many stories to tell about the adventures you and your students have had. Some will bring tears to your eyes for either they were so hilarious you laughed so hard you were crying, or tears of sadness because of a broken relationship, loss, frustration, disappointment, or all of the above.

As you ponder how you might be remembered after completing your 1st, 10th, 25th, or whatever year of ministry, you have left a mark on your kiddos in a powerful, Christ-like way. It has been happening through your thoughts, words, and actions as you, day in and day, out shared the love of Jesus.

Here is a story, author unknown, about a person whose life, like yours, made a difference to others.

I was at the corner grocery store, buying some early potatoes. I noticed a small boy, delicate of bone and feature, ragged but clean, hungrily appraising a basket of freshly-picked green peas. I paid for my potatoes, but was also drawn to the display of fresh green peas.

Pondering the peas, I couldn't help overhearing the conversation between Mr. Miller (the store owner) and the ragged boy next to me.

“Hello, Barry, how are you today?”

“H’lo, Mr. Miller. Fine, thank ya. Jus’ admirin’ them peas. They sure look good!”

“They are good, Barry. How’s your ma?”

“Fine. Gittin’ stronger alla’ time.”

“Good. Anything I can help you with?”

“No, Sir. Jus’ admirin’ them peas.”

“Would you like to take some home?” asked Mr. Miller

“No, Sir. Got nuthin’ to pay for ‘em with.”

“Well, what do you have to trade me for some of those peas?”

“All I got’s my prize marble here.”

“Is that right? Let me see it,” said Mr. Miller.

“Here ‘tis. She’s a dandy!”

“I can see that. Hmm, mmm. Only thing is, this one is blue and I sort of go for red. Do you have a red one like this at home?” the store owner asked.

“Not zackley, but almost.”

“Tell you what. Take this sack of peas home with you and next trip this way let me look at that red marble,” Mr. Miller told the boy.

“Sure will. Thanks, Mr. Miller.”

Mrs. Miller, who had been standing nearby, came over to help me. With a smile, she said, “There are two other boys like him in our community. All three are in very poor circumstances. Jim just loves to bargain with them for peas, apples, tomatoes, or whatever.”

"When they come back with their red marbles, and they always do, he decides he doesn't like red after all. So he sends them home with a bag of produce for a green marble or an orange one, when they come on their next trip to the store."

I left the store smiling to myself, impressed with this man. A short time later I moved to Colorado. But I never forgot the story of this man, the boys, and their bartering for marbles.

Several years went by, each more rapid than the previous one. Just recently I had occasion to visit some old friends in that Idaho community. While I was there I learned that Mr. Miller had died.

They were having his visitation that evening, and knowing my friends wanted to go, I agreed to accompany them. Upon arrival at the mortuary, we fell into line to meet the relatives of the deceased and to offer whatever words of comfort we could.

Ahead of us in line were three young men. One was in an army uniform and the other two wore nice haircuts, dark suits and white shirts, all very professional looking. They approached Mrs. Miller, standing composed and smiling by her husband's casket.

Each of the young men hugged her, kissed her on the cheek, spoke briefly with her and moved on to the casket. Her misty light blue eyes followed them as, one by one, each young man stopped briefly and placed his own warm hand over the cold pale hand in the casket. Each left the mortuary awkwardly, wiping his eyes.

Our turn came to meet Mrs. Miller. I told her who I was and reminded her of the story from those many years ago and what she had told me about her husband's bartering for marbles. With her eyes glistening, she took my hand and led me to the casket.

"Those three young men who just left were the boys I told you about."

"They just now told me how much they appreciated the things Jim 'traded' them. Now, at last, when Jim could not change his mind about color or size, they came to pay their debt."

"We've never had a great deal of the wealth of this world," she confided. "But right now, Jim would consider himself the richest man in Idaho."

With loving gentleness she lifted the lifeless fingers of her deceased husband. Resting underneath his hand were three exquisitely shined red marbles.

You've been driving down the road of another school year and now it's time to make a lane change. It's time for the school year to be over. The little (or big) schnicklefritzs are moving on and so are you. You look in your spiritual rearview mirror and what do you see? You see Good Friday...and then you see Easter Sunday. That's what makes the relationships you have nurtured and mentored in each of them this year, with Jesus by your side, life changing...for an eternity.

What's on your epitaph? I'm sure the words of Jesus from Matthew 25:40 would be a fitting way for you to end the school year. In faith, "Whatever (insert your name here) has done for one of the least of these brothers of mine, you have done it for me." May God be with you as you bring the 2017-2018 school year to a close. Finish strong!

"I tell you the truth, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine,
you did for ME"

Matthew 25:40

It was the term our Grandma & Grandpa Gerhold, now in heaven, used to call us when we were growing up.*

National Physical Fitness and Sports Month

Regular physical activity is good for everyone's health, and people of all ages and body types can be physically active. National Physical Fitness and Sports Month is a great time to spread the word about the benefits of getting active.

Here are just a few benefits of physical activity:

- Children and adolescents – Physical activity can improve muscular fitness, bone health, and heart health.
- Adults – Physical activity can lower the risk of heart disease, type 2 diabetes, and some types of cancer.
- Older adults – Physical activity can lower the risk of falls and improve cognitive function (like learning and judgment skills).
- Communities, health professionals, and families can work together to create opportunities for everyone to get more physical activity.

How can National Physical Fitness and Sports Month make a difference?

We can use this month to raise awareness about the benefits of physical activity — and spread the word about fun ways to get moving!

Here are just a few ideas:

- Encourage families to make small changes, like taking a walk after dinner or going for a bike ride.
- Motivate teachers and administrators to make physical activity a part of every student's day.
- Identify youth leaders in the community who can talk to their peers about the importance of being active.

Camp Io-Dis-E-Ca

April 2018

Higher Things Confirmation Camp

Lord, teach us to pray. Prayer isn't just memorizing a script or sharing your feelings. It was given for your comfort, but it's hard to pray if you don't know who you're talking to. It's terrifying if God knows about everything you hide from the rest of the world. Generic gods get generic prayers, and nobody expects help from the God who gives sinners what they deserve. So God teaches us who He is. We know who God is based on what He does. The Creed paints a picture of our God, what to expect from Him, and where to find it. The Lord's Prayer joins that to real life. Jesus teaches us to pray that sinners may find comfort and help. Over the course of a 4-day camp at Camp Io-Dis-E-Ca in Solon, IA, Rev. Harrison Goodman (St. Paul Lutheran Church, Winside, NE and St. Paul Lutheran Church, Carroll, NE) will lead confirmands in their catechism study and Rev. Sam Beltz (St. John Lutheran Church, Oskaloosa, IA) will preside over our worship times for the week. It'll be a week filled with edifying catechesis, distinctively Lutheran worship, and tons of outdoor fun!

This year's camp will be held July 31-August 3, 2018. Registration for each camper is $275. The registration fee includes all meals throughout the duration of camp as well as all activities, classes, and lodging at Camp Io-Dis-E-Ca. Head on over to <https://media.higherthings.org/retreats/camp/> for registration and more information.

SPRING CLEANUP - April 28

You can help make Camp Io-Dis-E-Ca a beautiful place for all who use it! On April 28, we're looking for volunteers to prepare our site by clearing out brush, mulching trails, cleaning out a few cabins, and possibly put together a new shed. We will also work on the landscaping for the new playset that will go next to the Gaga Ball pit and across from the basketball court. As we get ready for another year of providing Christ-centered education and recreation, will you help us in keeping Camp Io-Dis-E-Ca a beautiful and special location for all who enter our gates? As always, lunch is provided, so let Paul our Site Manager know you are coming by emailing him at sitemanager@iodiseca.org or by calling 319-848-4187. We'll be getting started by 9AM and finishing up by 4PM. This is a great event of Christian service for youth groups, families, and individuals! We'll see you on Saturday, April 28!

2018 Summer Camp Staff

Camp Io-Dis-E-Ca is one of dozens of Lutheran camps across the country looking for college-aged young adults to make a difference in the lives of children. The opportunity to serve at a camp awaits! Go to www.nloma.org and click on the employment tab at the top of the page to submit your application today!

Camp Io-Dis-E-Ca also needs Junior Counselors (JC's) to assist the summer program. Applicants should be at least 15 years old. JCs spend the week with a cabin group enjoying the many camp activities and serving as a positive role model and motivator for younger campers while helping the cabin counselors supervise younger campers. It's a great experience for only $95 per week. Please contact Camp Director, Daniel Sanchez by emailing director@iodiseca.org for more information or to receive an application.

Congregational Bulletin Resource

The Divine Service Our Lutheran Heritage of Worship

The Worship Committee of Iowa District East recently completed a project which provides a number of bulletin inserts that describe the varying aspects of the Divine Service. This resource has been made available online through our district website:

<http://lcmside.org/district-ministries/worship/>

These bulletin inserts were originally written by Pastor David Miller for use at Trinity Lutheran Church, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. This committee received requests for work of this nature, and we thought of these right away. Pastor Miller gave us permission to adapt and expand his work, and these are a result of that endeavor. They begin with worship in general, then the Divine Service in general, followed by the various parts of the Divine Service, and conclude with visual aspects of worship and aids to worship. They may be downloaded, copied, and used as you see fit. Biblical citations, unless otherwise noted, are from the English Standard Version. By using these, may you and yours gain deeper understanding and appreciation of our Lutheran heritage of worship.

just as in fact you are doing”
(1 Thessalonians 5:11)*

About the Event

Being Wendy to Peter Pan:

Peter Pan never wanted to grow up! Wendy quickly realized it was her job to help Peter Pan and the Lost Boys grow up. Similar to Wendy, our job is to help our young ones successfully grow up in healthy and productive ways. As Jesus said, “Let the little children come unto Me...” leading children to follow Jesus as well as equipping children with necessary skills and tools will provide this help. During our time at this conference, we will explore best practices in early childhood education which help the children we serve be successful in their relationships and in their stamina for life.

Together is Better (Session One):

You are not alone! Early childhood classrooms are busy, high paced environments and as early childhood teachers, many times we are expected to be all things to all people (just as Wendy was for her brothers and the lost boys). Although this task can seem overwhelming, it certainly is an amazing opportunity to make a difference in the lives of so many! Let’s talk about the demands of early childhood teachers and how we can be stronger together in areas of early childhood teams, teachers, parent coaches, our interpersonal relationships and in our walk of faith with our Lord Jesus.

The Path to Well-Balanced Children (Session Two):

Another monumental task! Helping children in today’s society be resilient and well-balanced. In this interactive session, we will take a look at how our classrooms promote well-balanced children in all four domains (physical development, social and emotional development, cognitive development, language and literacy development) and how we can continue to provide environments and opportunities for children to self-regulate and thrive. Drawing the children closer to Jesus, we can better help them stay away from the “Captain Hooks” in their lives and follow paths of health, happiness and holiness.
