Guest Speaker:
Rev. Dr. Jason Lane
Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, MO

Dr. Lane is Associate Professor of Historical Theology and the Director of Research, Assessment and Academic Programming at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis. He joined the faculty in 2024. Before joining the faculty at Concordia Seminary, Lane taught theology at Concordia University Wisconsin, Mequon, Wis. (2013–24), served as assisting pastor at Luther Memorial Chapel and University Student Center in Shorewood, Wis. (2013–24) and as pastor at Celebration Lutheran Church in St. Johns, Fla. (2010–13).

All pastors of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod affirmed at their ordination that they believe and confess the canonical Scriptures to be the inspired Word of God and the only infallible rule of faith and practice. Not only is our doctrine ruled and normed by Scripture alone, but also our practice. And because the Confessional Writings contained in the Book of Concord are a true exposition of Holy Scripture, we also promised to perform the duties of our office in accordance with these Confessions.

Divisions, however, have arisen in our church based on church practice. One group may say that Scripture or the Confessions require this or that practice. Others may claim that all practices not prescribed in Scripture are adiaphora and we are therefore free to practice and worship as each person or congregation thinks best. From our study and conversation together, it is my hope that we who are entrusted to preach, teach, and administer God's saving word and sacraments to sinners would be strengthened to believe, teach, and confess—with one voice and one heart—Christ and everything He has commanded us.
